UNIQUE TRESPASS ACTION IS FILED AT DOYLESTOWNDefendant Attempts To Convey Real Estate As Single Woman*MARRIED AT TIME*Phila. Property of Lower Southampton Woman Was in Transfer

DOYLESTOWN, July 14 — In one of the most unique actions in trespass filed in the Court of Common Pleas, here, because the defendant attempted to convey real estate as a single woman when she was married, Edna A. Duckenfield, also known as Edna Tweedale and Edna Hemphill, Trevese and Sterner's Mill rd., Lower Southampton twp., has been named the defendant by the Land Title Bank & Trust Co. of Phila.

The complainants, in a statement of claim in the Prothonotary's office, allege that a settlement on Feb. 16, 1950, the defendant, using the names of Edna Tweedale and Edna Hemphill, maintained she was a single woman.

She owned property at 3309 Shelmire st., Phila., which was to be conveyed to George E. and Pauline Chamberlain, Jr., in consideration of a $9100 mortgage.

The defendant, who obtained a divorce May 25, 1941, was married at the time of the settlement to William H. Duckenfield.

The $9100 mortgage was assigned to the Federal National Mortgage Association and since the complainants have learned that the defendant is not a single woman but a married one, they request judgment against Edna A. Duckenfield with appropriate interest.

On a photographic copy between the defendant and the complainants, the names of Edna Tweedale and Edna Hemphill are signed, stating that she is a single woman.

Russell E. and Edith Henry, Quakertown, in an action in assumpsit, have been named the defendants by Forrest Campbell, Quakertown, who is suing for $2,350.47, dated Oct. 15, 1949, growing out of a house and garage construction deal.

Colonial Floor Covering Co., 4336 Frankford ave., Phila., has named Carl F. Schnabel, Quakertown, R. D., the defendant in an action in assumpsit, claiming $855, dated June 17, 1949, growing out of merchandise deal.

POCKMARKS MAY BE FUGITIVE'S DOWNFALLWide-Awake Citizen May Be of Help in "Spotting" Henry Winston*"RED" HUNTED BY FBI

What wide-awake citizen, in the interest of public service, may "spot" Henry Winston, fugitive Communist leader, for the FBI? The following article—one of a series of eight—reveals these interesting facts about Winston: his face is pockmarked, he likes baseball and other sports and he may try to get in touch with his wife and kiddies because he's supposedly a home-loving man.

By James L. Kilgallen
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, July 14 — (INS) — Pockmarks on his face.

That's an important identifying feature of Henry Winston, missing 40-year-old Negro Communist leader now being hunted by the FBI.

Winston—and three others of the Communist Politburo, U. S. A.—jumped bail recently to escape serving prison terms for conspiring to overthrow the Government.

Alerted by the FBI, many Americans are on the lookout for Winston and his pals. Where the fugitives are is a mystery which is open to all kinds of conjecture.

Some say they've gone underground; others think they may be trying to flee the country for an Iron Curtain hideaway.

Big, burly and tough—that's Winston.

He's 5 feet 11½; weight 200 pounds; eyes, brown; hair, black and kinky; complexion dark; build, stocky.

Right now he's one of America's "most wanted" Communists. Prior to his disappearance, Winston resided with his wife and two children in the Harlem section of New York. He has claimed to be devoted to his wife and children who profess to know nothing of his whereabouts.

He likes baseball and other sports. He dresses fairly well.

Born April 2, 1911, at Hattiesburg, Miss., he was regarded up to the time of his disappearance as the "organizing genius" of the Communist Party. He holds the title of

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

The Communists have suggested that Korean truce talks at Kaesong be resumed under conditions already rejected by the United Nations. The Red proposal was contained in a letter and no reply has been reported. The Allied negotiators remain near Kaesong awaiting guarantees that the city will be in truly neutral territory, free of armed enemy troops and enabling equal freedom of movement for both sides.

A stiffening of the United States attitude toward truce negotiations in Korea was indicated by Secretary Acheson, who spoke in Washington of equal authority in the Kaesong area as a condition for resuming the talks. The United Nations will continue to strive for a unified, independent and democratic Korea, regardless how the armistice parley turns out.

The eastern defensive frontier of this country remains in Europe. General Bradley told Congress. He said aid in arms was needed now as much as two years ago and declared support for European armaments' industry would provide strength five years hence. An American Air Force expansion program calling for $96,000,000 in three years was urged. Government authority to build, operate or lease defense plants was defeated.

An effort to consolidate French and German viewpoints on rearmament was undertaken in Frankfurt. Plans for united action are being pressed by Western European port authorities.

The United States has signed a five-year defense agreement with Saudi Arabia providing air base facilities.

President Truman bade his special emissary to Iran, W. Averell Harriman, farewell with the remark: "Our interest is the interest of world peace and the welfare of Iran and the rest of the world." Mr. Harriman said he hoped to "create a spirit of goodwill" in Teheran. In London the Foreign Office hastened to correct an earlier impression that it felt the mission was pointless.

Moscow has acted to eliminate "serious ideological faults and mistakes" found to be prevalent in the Ukraine.

Thousands are homeless and damage has mounted to $300,000,000 in the worst Kansas floods in half a century.

Federal agents operating in New York in the last month have rounded up 500 aliens suspected of having entered the country illegally. President Truman asked Congress for legislation to clarify the position of migratory farm workers and control the flow of "wetbacks" from Mexico.

Fifteen Communist leaders have been released from bail for the week-end pending a decision on the question Monday.

A Connecticut grand jury returned a manslaughter indictment against Dr. Gibson in the death of an aged Danbury spinster.

THE WAR

UN TRUCK CAMP NEAR KAESONG — The Communist high command tonight accepted General Ridgway's terms for resumption of the Korean truce conference and thus paved the way for possible early renewal of the talks.

The Pyongyang radio said the Red leaders had agreed "in principle" to the demands made by the United Nations supreme commander for demilitarization of Kaesong, the conference site, and free access to that city for Allied delegation personnel including newsmen.

The broadcast said North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and Chinese General Peng Teh-Huai, sent a message to Ridgway, stating:

"We have received your message of the 13th. We agree to your proposal to make Kaesong a neutralized zone and agree to proceed with

MAKING SURVEY OF TRAFFIC ON ROUTE 13Will Then Decide On Re-Location of Route North of Tullytown*OTHER RD. PROBLEMS

The proposed Woodhaven road, suggested as a major east-west artery from Bristol Pike to Somerton, is one of five main recommendations made by the advisory board of Keystone Automobile Club. William S. Canning, engineering director of the club, brought the subject into sharper focus at a recent meeting of the Keystone's North-east Advisory Board.

This board unanimously adopted a report, calling for extensive street improvements in the northeast portion of Philadelphia to meet the challenge of industrial expansion. The need has been foreseen, due to unprecedented volume and industrial development in the northeast and in Bucks County which joins that section. With this development an even further tremendous increase in street and road use in the areas in question is seen.

According to the advisory board the crisis can be met "only by united action of all interests—political, industrial and business."

According to the report of the board, headed by James E. Vernon, vice-president of Corn Exchange Bank, Philadelphia, the board has been working on the problem for months, and the report is "virtually a blueprint of northeast needs, if traffic chaos is to be avoided." Mr. Canning claims that "any display of apathy will be fatal."

Newtown Businessmen Told Of Traffic Light Survey

NEWTOWN, July 14—Clement B. Righter was appointed secretary of Newtown Businessmen's Association to succeed the late R. Clifford Sherman, at a meeting held in the Temperance House, Tuesday evening. The president, Frank Whitman, conducted the meeting, when discussion took place in regard to the "thrift days," sponsored by merchants last month. Charles Mensch presented the report.

Bjarni Bjarnson, chairman of the transportation committee, reported postponement of the hearing of the Blue Bus Co. in its effort to obtain proper Public Utilities Commission license to pick up and discharge passengers. Petitions for individual signatures are available at the office of Mr. Righter, and persons interested in this additional bus service are requested to sign such.

The white lines for parking on State street are about completed and it is found they are very helpful and facilitate parking greatly.

A survey was made by state authorities Tuesday, in regard to the request for a traffic light at the intersection of State and Washington avenues, the decision, however, has not yet been announced.

BATTLE OF THE GIANTS

From where we sit, the fight for the Presidency next year seems to be narrowing down to a three-way battle.

Three factions are in the race, each of them so powerful that all other hopefuls are being left by the wayside.

First to be mentioned is President Truman, who, for our money, has never really had any doubts about his intention to run for another term. Second is Senator Taft, who is far out in front of all regular Republican Party possibilities. Third is a man who is neither Democrat nor Republican, but whose friends would like to see him have either or both of the party nominations—General Eisenhower.

Consider the political strength behind each of these. President Truman is the darling of the Pendergast gang and the white hope of considerably more than two million persons who are on Uncle Sam's payroll. Cronies and bureaucrats, what they have their eyes on is the vast governmental spending, which probably will run to between two billion and three billion dollars in the next four years.

In addition to all the Federal jobs, some of which are very swanky jobs indeed, and excellent "bait" for trapping the greedy among their political opponents, this group has access to all the cash in the U. S. Treasury, has jurisdiction over all public contracts and much private business, and can set the atmosphere and background in which the campaign is to be conducted.

It would be ingenious indeed to figure them to be a push-over. Unpopular as he is, and at the depths of his standing with the public, President Truman still is going to make a powerful candidate.

On the Republican side, it is beginning to become obvious that the friends of Senator Taft this year have been doing what they did with the Ohio campaign last year—set out seriously and intelligently to prepare for the convention ahead of time by intensive organizational work and other spadework.

How many delegates are already sewed up for Taft no one knows but his brain-trusters, and they aren't telling. That the Taft organization is far more widespread than had been assumed earlier was demonstrated when the Philadelphia committee trying to bring the Republican convention to the City of Brotherly Love ran foul of the Taft machine, and were blitzed by the Chicago supporters before they quite knew what had happened.

The number of those who speak of Taft as a "poor campaigner" has dwindled since his sensational victory in Ohio last year.

TRIO OF CHARGES LODGED AGAINST DRIVER OF AUTOJulio Navarro Said To Be Driving Minus Lights, License and Sticker*McLAIN IS ARRESTED*Philadelphian Also in Custody, on Charge of Drunken Driving

Police of lower Bucks County had another busy Friday. One accident case investigated involved three cars, one involved two machines, and in another instance several cars crashed as they followed each other closely. Police have also arrested a Pennell man on charge of being a hit-run driver.

Internal injuries, possible fracture of the nose and lacerations of the left eye were suffered by Charles T. Simpson, 821 Radcliffe street, this morning at the site of the old high bridge, which once spanned the railroad tracks at Tullytown.

Details concerning the crash are lacking, but Simpson was unconscious in the car when Bucks Co. Rescue Squad members arrived to remove him to Mercer Hospital, Trenton. N. J. Constable J. W. Kratz of Tullytown is investigating the case.

Local Fliers to Play Major Part in Air Show

Members of the Bristol Aeromodellers will play a major part in the model plane contest and air show on Sunday at U. S. Naval Air Station, Johnstown. All timing and judging personnel will be those selected from clubs belonging to the Bucks County Federation of Model Clubs.

Those from the Bristol Club who will act as timers and judges in the speed events are: Roland Smith, Albert Abrams, Sr., Albert Abrams, Jr., Mrs. Albert Abrams, William Rasmussen and Robert Cole.

Others who plan to compete in various events are: James VanSant, Jr., John Longbottom, David Baker and Clarence Wells.

This contest is being sponsored by the Plymouth dealers of the Philadelphia area and the U. S. Navy. Six all-expense paid trips to the international model competition in Detroit are offered as prizes as well as a $1,000 scholarship and 100 trophies. Nearly every type of model aircraft event will be held: speed, stunt, jet, radio control, free flight, glider and combat. Special radio communication networks will surround the area to guide retrieving trucks to locate runaway models.

The U. S. Navy which is co-sponsoring this meet, has taken a great amount of interest in promoting this hobby. Both the U. S. Navy and the Air Force have vast model programs and contest schedules underway for their personnel at most bases. They feel that events of this type do much to help build character and self-reliance in young men with the result that the nation will be able to meet every emergency that may confront it.

The public is invited to attend the meet at Johnstown and to view the navy's exhibits there. There are, however, certain restricted areas.

COLLEGE ENROLLMENT

Compared to the doleful estimates of six months ago, the prospects for college and university enrollment in September are exceedingly bright. That was the reassurance brought from Washington to the annual convention of the National Education Association at San Francisco by Rall I.
Grigsby, deputy United States commissioner of education, who said indications were that the overall drop will be only 8 per cent.

Last winter a falling off of enrollment as high as 30 or 40 per cent was expected. It was believed that the demands of the draft would be much greater. Most of those who availed themselves of the educational opportunities under the GI Bill of Rights have completed their courses.

Mr. Grigsby's estimate of an 8 per cent drop in September is merely that. He will not have the figures from the registrars until October. When he says college and university faculties have been cut 15 per cent, he omits to explain that many instructors were let out or given leaves of absence conditionally. Colleges generally are eager to keep their better men at work or on call.

NEVER HAD IT SO GOOD

Norway has put on the American run a new tanker, the Dal-tonn. Each of the 50 officers and cannons aboard the 24,500-ton ship has a private, air-conditioned cabin, and facilities for recreation include an amusement swimming pool.

All this luxury will seem incredible to those who have read Moby Dick, "Mutiny on the ounty," "Twenty Years Before the Mast," or "The Caine Mu-ny." Indeed, it will seem incredible to the men aboard most of the ships still afloat, for naval architects have not been noticeably solicitous about the comfort, or even the health, of seamen.

Bad ventilation, crowded sleeping quarters, lack of privacy and freedom have been the traditional lot of ships' crews.

The new dispensation is not holly a matter of humanitarianism.
The discomforts of life at sea, particularly on merchantmen, have lessened the number who are willing to become seamen.

The luxury offered by the Dal-tonn is obviously an attempt to attract the problem of recruitment.

Some of the oldest and toughest of sea dogs may look with orn at the Daltonn, as an old regular Army sergeant will sneer even the modest comforts of the modern army camp. But few will be their nostalgia for the Spar-n life in the fore-castles and barks of old. Men can be men, and old soldiers and good sailors, thout living like cattle.

"Blessed are the peacemakers" esn't include those trying to the peace so they can build up ster toward another war.

It is predicted that mail even-ally will be carried at 1,500 les an hour. This will be a vast improvement except at bill time.

Pockmarks May Be Fugitive's Downfall
national organizing secretary and is a member of the Party's national board. In other words, one of the party's real "big shots."

A former corporal in the U. S. Army, Winston was chosen to head the unsuccessful post-war attempt to infiltrate the American Legion and other veteran groups.

At one time he organized a school to train 5,000 party members in basic Marxism.

The rugged-looking Winston joined the Communist Party in Kansas City in 1931. The following year he took part in the Young Communist League's national "hunger march" on Washington, D. C.

From there he went to New York as a YCL organizer in Brooklyn's rough-and-ready Red Hook section, and in Harlem. He played up the "discrimination" propaganda among Negroes.

He made two trips to Russia—in 1935 and 1937.

Back in the United States, he continued his organizing work at which he was quite skilled.

He was inducted into the U. S. Army in February 1942 and was honorably discharged in 1945.

Among his late jobs with the Party he was a member of the editorial staff of the Communist magazine "Political Affairs."

Being "on the lam" may pall on Winston, supposedly a home-loving man. Will he try to get in touch with his wife? She is a native of Brooklyn. Her father was a native of Russia, her mother a native of Austria.

If Winston is spotted by some wide-awake citizen, the pockmarks on his face may be a factor.

(Tuesday: Sidney Steinberg, wanted as a member of the Communist "second team.")

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
White House Angle
WASHINGTON, July 14.
One effect here of the Korean negotiations, the final outcome of which, despite stoppage of actual fighting, will not be known for weeks to come (and may not be known at all) is a violent outbreak of partisan politics. Both Republicans and Democrats have contributed to this. It appears definitely to end the last slender hope of a revival of anything like a bipartisan foreign policy.

Until and unless a general war forces unity, there will be no unity in either defense effort or the conduct of foreign affairs. On the contrary, there now seems practical certainty that foreign policy will be the main issue in the presidential campaign next year. The full propaganda power of the Administration is already employed. Its foreign policy and those who sponsored it will be hotly engaged by one side and savagely attacked by the other. There now seems no way to avoid this, and those who appreciate that the state of the world for a long time to come will call for the utmost strength we can develop at home and abroad are deeply distressed at the prospect.

It is, in fact, a bad situation. Without in the least condoning the extreme partisanship of the Republicans, it is unquestionably true that chief blame attaches to the Democratic Administration. Look at the facts. Under existing conditions bipartisanship in foreign affairs is, of course, essential if our policies are to be truly effective. Mr. Truman and Secretary of State Acheson have done a great deal of breast-beating about their desire for unity. Their favored columnists and commentators loudly and constantly pay high tribute to the late Senator Vandenberg and lament that there are in the Senate no other Republicans of his breadth and character, which may be true. However, these professions and protestations clearly make it incumbent for the Administration to set an example.

If bipartisanship is to be achieved, the initiative must come from the party in power. If its leaders initiate policies they also must take the first steps toward the abandonment of politics. Few will dispute that, but even fewer will contend that, despite the employment of Mr. Dulles and ex-Senator Cooper, any real step in that direction has been taken. Certainly the stuff emanating from Administration sources since the Korean truce was seriously suggested contradicts any such idea. Almost from the day of Mr. Malik's speech, the Democratic politicians, by whom Mr. Truman is surrounded and whom he sees more frequently than anyone else—notably Chairman of the National Committee William M. Boyle—have concentrated upon the political benefit that might accrue to him and them. A stream of propaganda is pouring forth from the various party publicity agencies to the general effect that the proposed truce is proof of the "brilliant success" of the Truman policies in Korea; that the end of the fighting there means his triumphant renomination and re-election; that he now will be forced by popular demand to run again, etc. The New Deal-Fair Deal publicists sing the same song.

Naturally, the Republican reaction is to combat all this. Their propagandists point out that another "brilliant success" such as the one in Korea would sink the country; that the truce leaves us exactly where we started—on the Thirty-eighth Parallel; that there have been 80,000 American casualties in Korea in one year; that the cost in money and materials has been stupendous, and even with the fighting ended, an end of the terrific drain on our economy is just not in sight, etc. This Democratic-Republican flood of partisan propaganda is supplemented by the advocates of General Eisenhower, who urge that peace in Korea increases the chances of his Republican nomination and might bring about indorsement by the Democratic Convention.

The reasoning here is not easy to follow but the point is that in Washington Democrats, Republicans and the professional liberals alike have rushed to interpret developments in Korea in terms of partisan politics, apparently concerned only secondarily with their effect upon the world crisis. Here was an opportunity for the Administration to refrain from claiming credit for a "brilliant success"; to ignore the political advantages for 1952 and sound a genuinely bipartisan note. But that opportunity has been lost in the clamor of its politicians and publicists about the political benefits to Mr. Truman. However, when one considers the President's recent appointments to the Federal bench and the contemptuous way he has swept aside the recommendations of the bar associations for those of the politicians it is hardly surprising that his aides should view the Korean situation from the political angle. That is the recognized White House angle.

MAKING SURVEY OF TRAFFIC ON ROUTE 13

advised by the Pennsylvania Department of Highways that "Richardson and Gordon, consultant engineers, are making a reconnaissance survey for re-location of the D. R. 13 from a point north of Tullytown to the Lincoln highway. Until this survey is completed there can be no decision as to exact location. . . . It is not proposed to extend this study west of the Lincoln highway at this time."

"Another project which is definitely being planned for construction is the new approach to the Delaware River Bridge which is being constructed. These approaches will meet the present Lincoln Highway at Snipes Corner . . . and will approximately parallel the present Lincoln highway."

The five major recommendations of the advisory board for immediate planning and action in Philadelphia's northeast section are:

1. The Aramingo and Harrison Avenues Project to be pushed to an early completion.

2. Grant Avenue be improved and extended West from Bustleton Avenue to Huntingdon Pike.

3. The proposed Woodhawn Road be built for use as a major East-West artery from Bristol Pike to Somerton.

4. Frankford Avenue be improved by removal of trolley tracks and substitution of trackless trolleys to expedite traffic flow.

5. Construction of new Highway West of City Line (Cheltenham Avenue) connecting with Northern area.

RANGE COLORS
NEW YORK (INS)—To achieve more colorful kitchen effects, modern gas ranges now are produced in a variety of colors for tops, handles and gas-cocks. Enameling is better, too. It's thinner, harder, more resistant to stains and less subject to chipping. Even white enamel is a more positive white, providing better harmony with other kitchen fixtures.

Miss Hazel Craig Is Wed To Pfc. Griffin

LANGHORNE, July 14—Langhorne Methodist Church formed the setting for a wedding Thursday at eight o'clock, when Miss Hazel Constance Craig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Craig, of Hulmeville road, became the bride of Pfc. Robert Lincoln Griffin, Ft. Campbell, Ky., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Griffin, Sr., Langhorne, R. D. 1.

The Rev. Robert Curry performed the double ring ceremony, with Miss Shirley Helzman at the organ and accompanist for Mrs. Dean Moyer, Philadelphia, as she sang "Because," "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore white starched chiffon over white satin, fashioned with fitted bodice, with Queen Anne collar of starched chiffon and lace, with long sleeves coming to a point over the hand. Her gown had a lace trimmed peplum falling over a full skirt, ending in a Cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a cap of imported Chantilly lace trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried a shower cascading bouquet of white roses and baby's breath.

Miss Alma G. Craig, Langhorne, was her sister's maid of honor, and wore white starched chiffon over orchid taffeta, fashioned with cap sleeves, fitted bodice, with full long skirt. She wore a white lace Juliet cap trimmed with orchid taffeta and carried a shower cascading bouquet of orchid and yellow gladioli. Miss Kathryn Griffin, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, as was Miss Ruth Shapcott, Hulmeville. They wore gowns fashioned like that worn by the maid of honor, Miss Griffin's being over Nile green taffeta and carrying yellow gladioli, with matching green headress, and the gown of Miss Shapcott being over yellow taffeta, and she carried orchid gladioli and wore a matching yellow headress.

Mr. Thomas Griffin, Jr., brother of the bridegroom, was best man; and ushers were Mr. Ferdinand Reetz, Jr., of Hulmeville, and Mr. Wynne Cloud, Yardley.

The bride's mother chose a navy ensemble with white accessories for her daughter's wedding, with which she wore a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Griffin, mother of the bridegroom, chose an old rose gown with navy accessories and wore a corsage of pink roses.

A reception was held in the fire station at Parkland, after which the young couple left for a honeymoon trip to Atlantic City, N. J. The bride will remain at the home of her parents, the bridegroom returning to Ft. Campbell, Ky., where he is stationed with the U. S. Army paratroopers.

The bride is a graduate of Neshaminy high school and is secretary at Council Rock high school, Newtown. The bridegroom is an alumnus of Neshaminy high school.

The chief executive of all federal prisons is the Attorney General.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

PORK shoulders currently are one of the least expensive meat cuts. Just as is the case with most pork products, the secret of success in preparing this economy item is slow cooking over a long period. The A & P Service for Homemakers suggests this recipe for a main dish which should please your family when it is served this Sunday:

Place a shoulder of fresh pork in a heavy cooking pot containing one quart of boiling water. Add two onions, one dozen stuffed olives, one teaspoon of salt, one-quarter teaspoon of pepper and one teaspoon of mixed pickling spices. The pickling spices should be tied in a small cheesecloth bag.

Simmer gently for three hours on top of the stove. Remove the meat to a serving platter and serve either hot or cold. The stock in which the meat was cooked can be used for soup or gravy. Side dishes for this dinner are baked potatoes and asparagus. For your salad, try cole slaw, mixing a small, shredded cabbage with two shredded carrots, half a cup of mayonnaise, two tablespoons of vinegar and salt.

Molasses cookies with milk will make a satisfying dessert. Mix together three-fourths of a cup of sour milk, one and one-half cups of molasses and half a cup of melted butter or margarine. Sift together five cups of flour, two teaspoons of ginger, one teaspoon of salt and two scant teaspoons of baking soda. Add molasses mixture slowly, stirring constantly. Add one cup of chopped, seeded raisins and roll out one-quarter inch thick. Cut and bake on greased cookie sheets in a 350 degree oven for 20 minutes.

When Child Contradicts You

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

EVER so many parents who have a child from two to four or five suppose he is about the worst child that ever lived. He may have so outwitted his parents as to keep no account of their forbiddings while they go on helplessly saying "No" or "Don't" more and more. When they request him to do something he refuses and they immediately turn the request to a command so that to his mind all requests are camouflaged commands. Even where they utter a statement of an obvious fact the youngster will say it isn't so. If, for example, they say the sun is shining, he will say it is not. Of an only child the mother writes: "Dear Dr. Myers: Our daughter, age 3½, touches everything she shouldn't and contradicts us in everything we say. If it is raining and we tell her so, up comes, 'It isn't raining!'"

Another Cry "At night, when put to bed and the light is put out, she fakes another cry. She has always slept in the dark and made no fuss until recently."

"Before she picks up her toys in her room, a spanking is necessary."

My reply in part: This youngster has outsmarted you parents. She knows she has you baffled and this knowledge gives her great satisfaction.

In the first place, when she contradicts a statement of fact by you, why be annoyed? Why even act as if you have noticed her contradiction? In the second place, draw the line very clearly between a request and a command. Study carefully the enclosed bulletins, "Stubbornness," "Sleep Problems" and "Teaching 'Not Meaning of No'" (to be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this paper).

Make a Request When you make a request don't change it in form or meaning to a command. Let her choose whether to accede to the request or not, but try to make the request so attractive that she will accede. But if she doesn't, show no anger at her and don't proceed to force her to do what you had requested her to do.

Quietly announce to her a few minutes before bedtime that she will shortly go to bed and when that time comes just pick her up and take her to bed. On the way to bed use your best skills to divert her attention and thus reduce her resistance. Leave a dim light on outside her bedroom and the door ajar. Now and then walk by her door or even into her room occasionally as if on an errand, to make sure she is not disturbed by fear.

Put Away Blocks Don't expect a child so young to pick up and put away her blocks. Help her to make it an enjoyable experience. Following this achievement, you might read her one or more of her favorite stories.

Agree, you and Dad, on one or two things she must never do: things dangerous to her or things she will greatly endanger. Choose only those you can see her do with your own eyes without exception. Then when she does these few things the parent nearest to her should smack her briskly on her bare fat thigh. Observe the rules of immediacy and no exception. As soon as she will stay where put, abandon spanking and substitute for it her having to sit in a chair for 20 minutes.

Cuddle her often when she is good, listen to what she has to say, answer all her questions kindly and have good times with her. Warmly and amiably approve her good traits and deeds. Try to say No as seldom as possible but don't repeat a command. Try to relax and be poised yourself. That will help.

FIFTH WARD WINS EASILY OVER PACIFIC

Fifth Ward Sporting Club registered an easy 14-0 victory over Pacific Steel last evening in a Bristol Softball League tilt on Memorial field. The triumph strengthened the Warders' hold on fifth place in the loop.

The Warders took advantage of the wildness of Nick Lomma and several errors to push eight runs across in the first frame. Bob Calone relieved Lomma in this inning and went good until the fifth when Fifth Ward went on another spree and five runs dented the plate.

Stan Koreyva hurled for the winners, giving the boiler-makers but three hits. He fanned eight. Other than the first inning when Pacific loaded the bases on a hit and two walks, he was never in serious difficulty.

Trio of Charges Lodged Against Driver of Auto

and costs was committed to Bucks County prison, Doylestown, for 20 days.

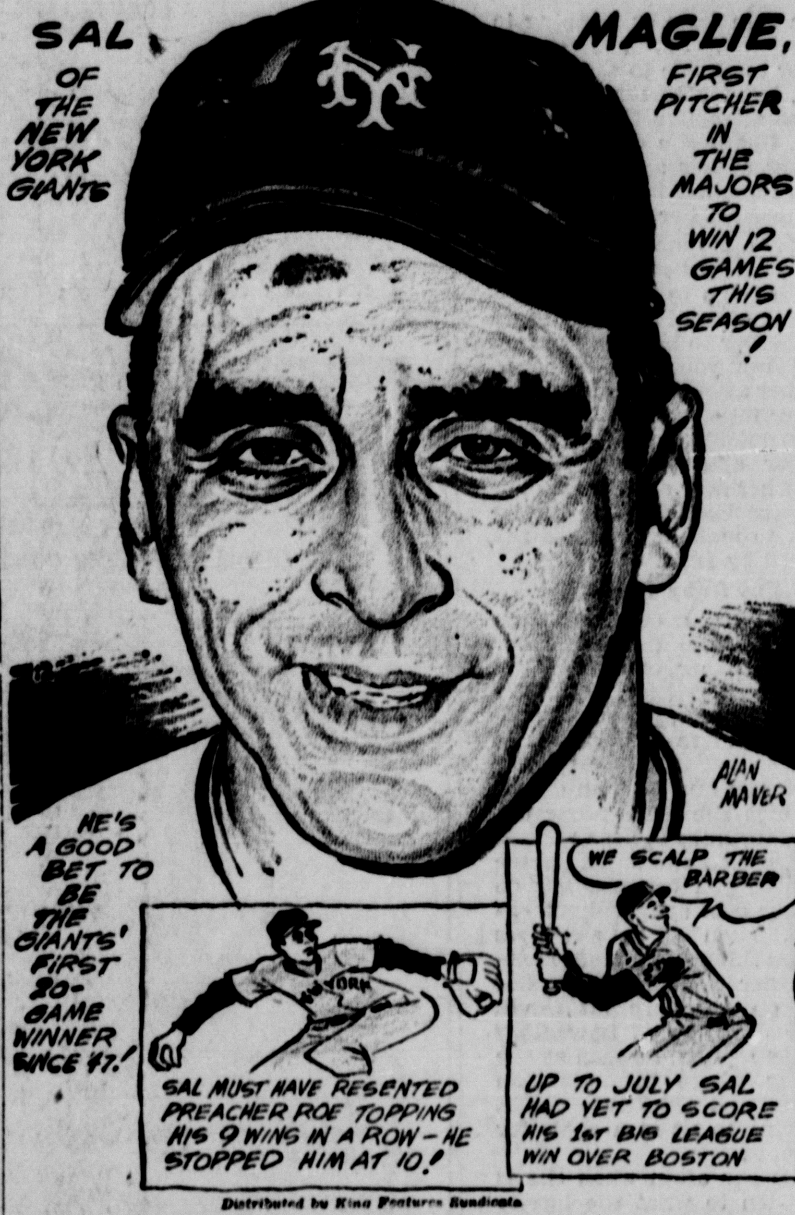

At 11 o'clock last night, on the Lincoln highway in Bensalem township a car driven by Joseph C. Forcione, 45, of Metuchen, N. J., is claimed to have hit the rear of a machine operated by Thomas Percetti, 64, of Lincoln highway, Penn. The Percetti car was halted at the time for the traffic light at U. S. 1 and Street road. Damage to the two vehicles is estimated at $140. There were no injuries. Officers McCloud and McDonough of Langhorne barracks investigated.

State police of Langhorne barracks reported this morning that they have arrested Colin B. McLain, Lincoln highway, Penn., on charge of being a hit-run driver. Although it is stated that McLain had been involved in a recent accident, details were lacking at an early hour today. In default of bail he was taken to the county prison. Arrested at four a. m. yesterday, by Bristol township police, Raymond John Jones, 30, of Benner street, Philadelphia, was released under $500 bail at a hearing before Justice of the Peace M. M. Lawrence, here. The charge is driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. It is claimed that Jones almost struck a tractor-trailer on Bristol Pike at St. Mark's Cemetery.

Last evening at 5:15 it is claimed that about seven automobiles, following behind each other, had "bumper crashes" at the Neshaminy Creek bridge, Croydon, when one driver made a sudden turn into a side road. There were no injuries and no arrests. Damage to one or two cars is slight, according to Bristol township police.

Franklin A. C. remained unbeaten in the second half race of the Bristol Boys League by beating the Terrace Tigers, 6-4, last evening on Memorial field. Franklin has now won two straight in the second half battle.

Nesbitt was the winning pitcher. Although a trifle wild in walking six batters, Nesbitt had good control in the pinches. He struck out ten and helped his own cause with a homer in the sixth with no one on base.

Thompson, the losing moundman, also had 10 strikeouts and did not walk a batter.
